

Culture as a Vocation

Vincent Dubois

original French version: La culture comme vocation, Raisons d'Agir, Paris, 2013, 200 p.

Vocational occupations are attractive not so much for their material rewards as for the prestige and self-fulfillment they confer. They require a strong personal commitment, which can be subjectively experienced in terms of passion and selflessness. The choice of a career in the cultural sector provides a good example of this. What are the terms of this calling? What predisposes individuals to answer it? What are the meanings of such a choice? To answer these questions, this book focuses on would-be cultural managers. By identifying their social patterns, by revealing the resources, expectations and visions of the world they invest in their choice, it sheds new light on these occupations. In these intermediary and indeterminate social positions, family heritages intersect with educational strategies and aspirations of upward mobility with tactics against downward mobility. Ultimately the study of career choices in cultural management suggests a new take on the analysis of social reproduction. The empirical findings of this research conducted in France are set in a broader comparative perspective, at the European level and with the USA.

Table of contents

Introduction

Chapter 1. Culture in the space of career choices

1. How cultural occupations become attractive
  - The rise of cultural employment
  - Cultural managers: professional labels and vocations
  - An attractive sector despite poor employment conditions
  - A loosely defined professional milieu
2. Training and genesis of vocations
  - The development of specialized training in cultural management
  - The structure of specialized training supply
  - The effects of the specialization of training

Chapter 2. Who wants to become a cultural manager?

1. A female vocation
2. Privileged social backgrounds
3. Educated applicants
4. Cultivated applicants
5. The space of applicants

Chapter 3. The meanings of a career choice

1. A choice that leaves doors open
  - A real choice...
  - ... presented as such...
  - ... of a sector rather than of a specific occupation
2. A third way between art and teaching
  - Teaching as a foil
  - The artistic vocation as a reference
3. The rationales of a career choice
  - Dreams of social mobility
  - Socio-professional reproduction
  - Devaluated literary capital, reinvested educational capital
  - Self-assertion

Chapter 4. Intermediate dispositions and adjustment strategies

1. Between cultural legitimism and eclecticism
2. Reinventing the artist lifestyle
  - Re-enchanting work
  - The embodiment of the new spirit of capitalism
  - A different form of political awareness

Conclusion

Appendix